- 01 Grammar: Polite Phrasing
- 02 Grammar: Even if & Even though
- 03 Listening: Tip. A sparring session.
- 04 Grammar: Past Perfect & Past simple
- 05 Reading: Sharing Feedback

Grammar: Polite Phrasing

We can use modal verbs and words like THOUGHT, PERHAPS or WONDER, to construct polite phrases.

A typical question like, Can you help me? can be changed so it is more politely phrased.

“I thought perhaps you could help me.”

“I wondered if you might help me.”

“I hoped you would consider helping me.”

Grammar: Even if (incluso si)

- It is like "whether or not". It means that doing something beforehand may not make a difference to the end result.

“Even if they had extended our deadline, we might not have been able to complete the necessary changes.”

- It's possible that the extra time would not have made a difference.

There was no guarantee.

- Structure: even if + subject + rest of objects
- Even if is used for hypothetical situations and works like a conditional sentence.

Grammar: Even though (aunque, a pesar de)

- It is like "despite the fact that". It means that something in the past had no impact on the result.

“Even though they extended our deadline, we weren’t able to complete the necessary changes.”

- Structure: Even though + subject + rest of objects
- Even though is used for past situations but not for the future, as it only shows there is no impact on the result.

BEFORE LISTENING: key vocabulary

- Sparring session: A meeting where feedback and criticism is given by colleagues.
- to be on the same page: To understand and agree with what is being done or suggested.
- An explanation for something that may be true but has not yet been proved: A hypothesis.

BEFORE LISTENING: key vocabulary

- Minimal viable product (MVP): The introduction of a new product with only basic features.
- Brand awareness: To have knowledge and understanding of a brand.
- Validate: To prove something correct
- Total addressable market (TAM): The demand that exists for your product on the market.

GRAMMAR: PAST PERFECT

- to talk about something that happened before a certain past event.

When?

One thing happened before another thing in the past. We use it to talk about that FIRST thing that happened.

Past Perfect

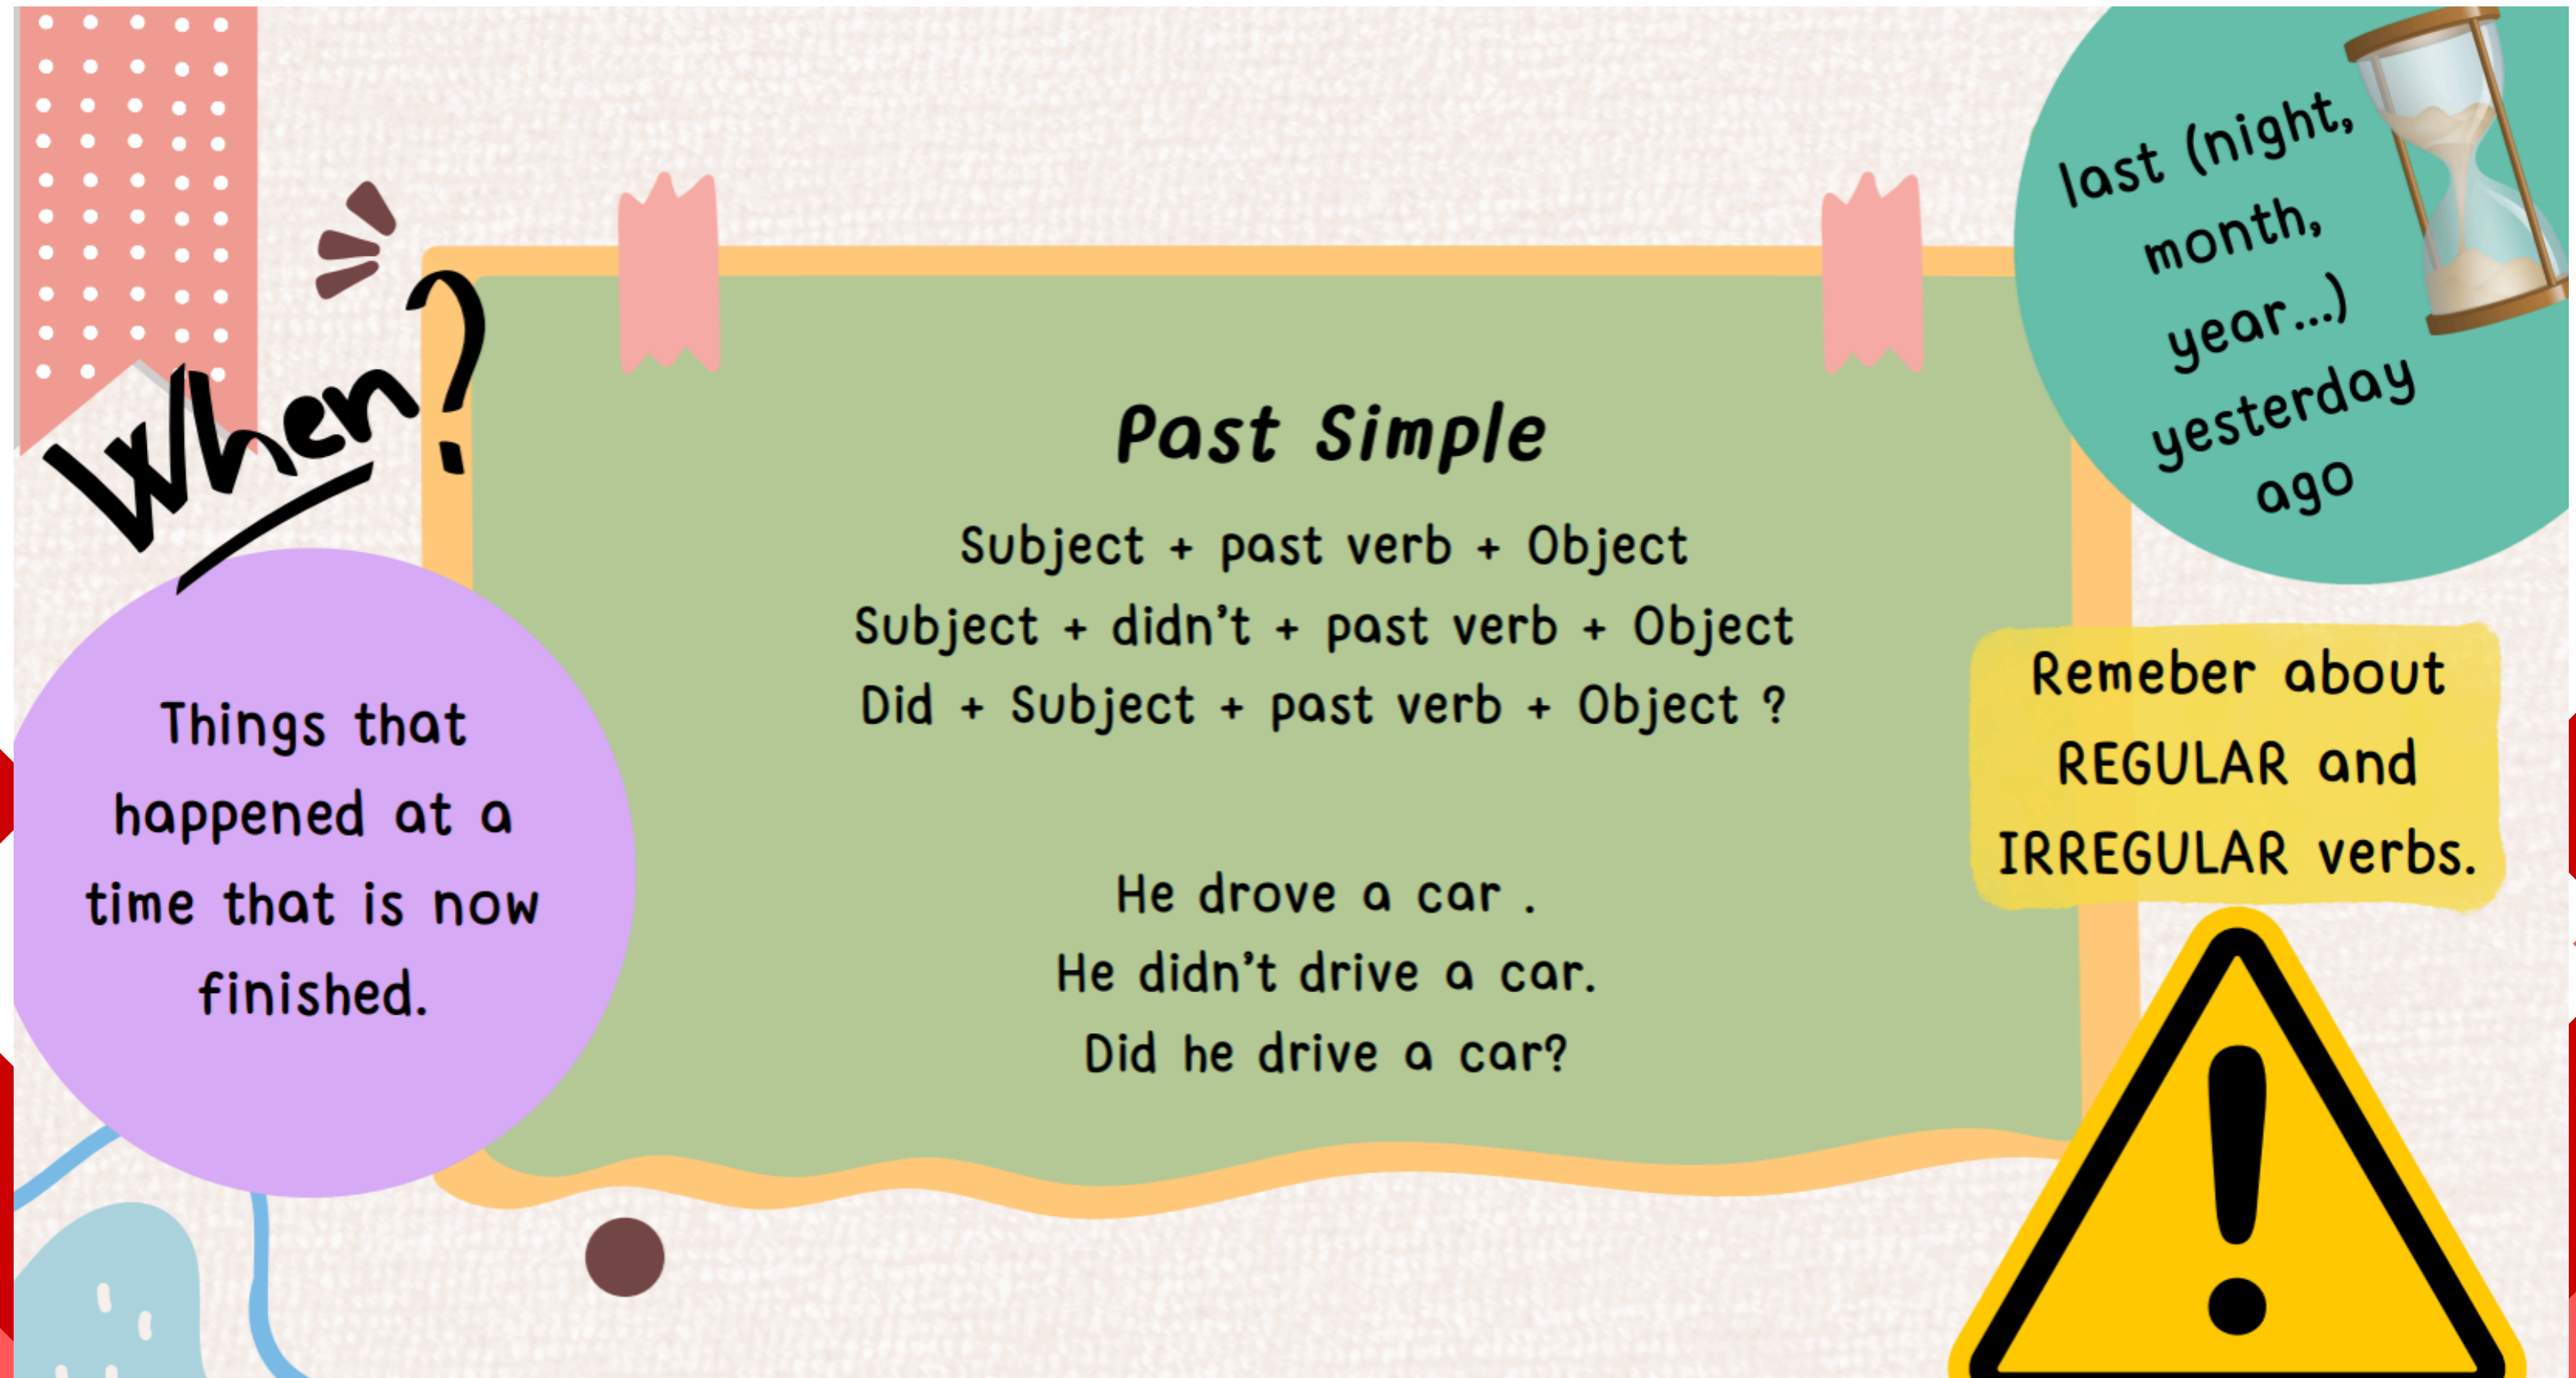

Subject + had + participle + Object
Subject + had + not + participle + Object
Had + Subject + participle + Object ?

He had driven a car.
He had not driven a car.
Had he driven a car?

before
after
...

GRAMMAR: PAST SIMPLE

- for the certain past event.

The infographic is set against a light beige background with a red and white diagonal striped border on the left and right sides. A central green rectangular area with a wavy orange border contains the main text. To the left of this area is a purple circle with a white question mark and a pink dotted rectangle. To the right is a teal circle with an hourglass icon and a yellow rectangular box. At the bottom right is a large yellow warning triangle with a black exclamation mark.

When?

Things that happened at a time that is now finished.

Past Simple

Subject + past verb + Object
Subject + didn't + past verb + Object
Did + Subject + past verb + Object ?

He drove a car .
He didn't drive a car.
Did he drive a car?

last (night, month, year...) yesterday ago

Remeber about REGULAR and IRREGULAR verbs.

GRAMMAR: PAST PERFECT & PAST SIMPLE

- These two tenses can be combined in one sentence.
- When this happens, it means that one action IN THE PAST happens BEFORE than another action in the past.
- Have a look at the following examples:

“My team told me yesterday that they had finished the project two days ago.”

happens
after

happens
first

“The customer had fixed the password problem before I could contact him.”

happens
first

happens
after
